Acknowledgements

The author would like to express his gratitude to all those in Australia and Germany whose assistance contributed to making this study possible. Special thanks are due to Anke Murphy, Frank and Heidrun Scholz, Andrew Murphy, Daryl Murphy, Paul Murphy, Jocelyn Murphy, Graeme Pearce, Kate Warner, Leon Atkinson-MacEwen, Peter Hoult, Deborah Willcocks, Stephen Munro, Julie Walters, Russell Smith, Clive Williams, Clemens Bushart, D.K. Gerstner, Michael Kilchling, Franziska Kunz, Dietrich Oberwittler, Gaby Löffler and Ulrike Auerbach.

In addition, the author is indebted to Hans-Jörg Albrecht, the supervisor of this study, for his advice and support over the past three years, and to the Max Planck Institute for Foreign and International Criminal Law in Freiburg for the financial assistance that was provided for the empirical research in Australia. Thanks also to all colleagues – past and present – for helping to enjoy the highs and forget the lows that are, by nature, associated with academic life.

This study is dedicated to Lennox and Nelly-Ann. While they may not yet understand it, they certainly inspired me to finish it.
