INTRODUCTION

The texts presented here are the results of an attempt to rescue the folk literature of a disappearing group of Indians.

The first part consists of texts secured from the Hill family, who were the last to leave the Bald Hills and join their kindred in Hupa Valley.<sup>1</sup> Tom Hill, the father, knew many medicine formulas, but, as he claimed, few myths. It is known, however, that the myths and tales of the Hupa were shared by the Chilula of Bald Hills. For the general student the differences between the Hupa and the Chilula of that region are too small and few to be important.

The texts forming the second portion of the paper were obtained from a very aged woman, a native of Redwood Creek, south of Bald Hills, the wife of Molasses.<sup>1a</sup> Her age made the securing of these texts very difficult. She spoke the dialect of middle and upper Redwood Creek. The larger number of the surviving natives of that region were with the Hupa when young and use the Hupa pronunciation. This informant used k' where Hupa has x, agreeing in this respect with the Athapascans in the region immediately south. She also used a for e in many words, but this is considered a personal peculiarity. It was impossible to record a complete text directly from her lips. The interpreter, O'Haniel Bailey, a Whilkut, supplied many phrases and sentences. These are Hupa in their phonetics.

To one familiar with the region these myths and tales give it an ancient and supernatural atmosphere. As one passes a particular spot he is reminded that here such a monster used to live, or that these rocks are still the abode of hostile spirits to placate whom certain medicine formulas are used. It is feared that to the stranger this impression can not be conveyed.

SOUND VALUES OF CHARACTERS USED

- a* as in father.
- ai* as in aisle.
- e* as in net.
- ē* as in they, but lacking the vanish.
- ei* as in ey in they.
- i* as in pin.
- ī* as in pique.
- o* open o, nearly as in on.

<sup>1a</sup> Her portrait is shown in plate 40 of this volume.

- ō as in note.
 oi as in boil.
 ū as in rule.
 ū as in but.
 y as in yes.
 w as in will.
 w an unvoiced w occurring frequently at the end of syllables.
 hw the preceding in the initial position.
 l as in let.
 L an unvoiced sound made with the tip of the tongue against the teeth, the breath being allowed to escape rather freely between the sides of the tongue and the back teeth.
 L made in the position of the preceding sound, but accompanied by glottal closure. It also begins with a complete contact revealed in a t which closes all weak syllables preceding it.
 m as in English.
 n usually as in English, but sometimes short, due to a glottal stop following.
 ñ as ng in sing.
 h somewhat stronger than in English.
 ' the preceding after vowels.
 x a palatal voiceless spirant like ch in German nach.
 s as in sit.
 c as sh in shall, occurs only after t. d formed in the dental position; sonant after the release of the tongue.
     When it is preceded by a weak vowel a t is heard.
 t in the position of d, surd and strongly aspirated, much as in tell.
 t in the position of d, surd, unaspirated and accompanied by glottal closure.
 k a surd stop having the contact on the posterior third of the hard palate, when it precedes a front vowel or y; before a back vowel the contact is on the soft palate. It is accompanied by glottal closure giving the sound considerable harshness.
 k' a strongly aspirated surd palatal stop. It is found only in the second part of the paper, being used where the Hupa use x.
 g has the positions of k as given above. In sonancy it resembles d.
 q similar to g, but more noticeably velar.
 dj a sonant affricative consisting of the zh sound in English azure preceded by a complete contact.
 tc an affricative, an sh sound preceded by a complete contact. It is accompanied by a glottal closure in most instances. When the texts were recorded tc without glottal closure was not differentiated in writing.
 ' glottal closure. It occurs in many words where it was not noted. It is present, probably, in all cases where two vowels are written without a separating consonant.

NOTE.—In the texts each Indian word is translated by an English word or phrase which has been set off from those preceding and following by wide spacing. It is only by accident that the English translation occasionally stands under the Indian word of which it is a translation.

PART I

Obtained from Tom Hill and his son Dan Hill

I. THE WAR WITH THE LASSIK INDIANS<sup>38</sup>

A war party went far south. All the Indians who used to live on upper Redwood creek went with the party. All the people who used to live below Iaqui butte and at the big bend of Mad river went also. They met on the ridge south of the head of Redwood creek and held the war dance. There were sixty men who had weapons. The dance line was so long that in two places a man stood in front of the line and danced. They shot with bows and arrows and with white man's guns. The party was two days and two nights on the way. They came to the village of Taikē, at the mouth of Dobbin creek, and fought with the Indians living there. Many bodies were left lying there.

They turned back and camped for the night. Some of them said there used to be very many Indians living in that neighborhood. Then we went ahead as scouts. When we had gone so far (about a mile) we came to a ridge, which we followed until we came to XōLōkōtme, where they were camping. They were talking. Some of them were laughing and some were crying. Then we ran back south. The war party was coming from the south.

They surrounded the enemy and began shooting at them with bows and arrows. After they had fought for some time they began to shoot with white man's guns. "Bau, bau, bau," they sounded. Then they fled. They got under a log which was lying on the side of a gulch. They began to fight in the morning and were still fighting when the sun was here in the west. They carried pieces of bark in front of themselves and went into the gulch to them and killed them all. Their missiles were all gone. Two men, brothers, were wounded. They fought until the sun was setting. We started back.

II. PANTHER AND GRIZZLY BEAR

Panther lived there with his two brothers. He used to spend all his time hunting, but before he set out each time he used to say to his brothers, "You must not go to the top of the ridge west." One day when he had cautioned them and left to hunt, the boys said to each other, "Why does he always tell us that? Come, let us go up on the ridge west." When they were on the ridge they looked and way at the end of the timber they saw an old man lying with his legs crossed. His wife sat by him. They shouted, "Old man over there, come, help us pound." Then the old man said, "What did you say?" "Come, help us pound." "Well," he said, and took down the grizzly bear skin blanket that he wore and put it on. The two boys ran back, went into the house and slid to the door. When they had sat there some time they heard him coming. "Boys, open the door for me," he called to them. When they did not open it, he climbed on the roof and came down the smokehole. They gave him some venison and he began eating it. He finished it and they gave him another helping. He ate that and then all the meat in the house. Finally he ate the untanned hides. When he had finished everything he said, "Well, I will go home." The boys opened the door for him, but his belly was so full he could not go through. He went out the smokehole. The house was nearly filled with the filth he left behind him. The boys began carrying it outside with baskets.

When the oldest brother came home he was carrying two deer which he had killed. "I always tell you not to go to the ridge west," he said to them. He slapped the face of wildcat and pinched out the face of fox.

He spent a night flaking arrowpoints. In the morning he started, carrying five quivers full of arrows. He came where the old man was lying and shot him twice. "Alo," the old man cried, "what did you put in the fire that snaps so?" "It is the fire snapping, is it? He is shooting at you," the old woman said. Then the old man jumped up and took down the grizzly bear blanket and put it on. The young man kept shooting back at him as he ran after him. Finally he had only one arrow left. The old woman then called to him, "Between his toes." He shot him there and he rolled over. He killed him.

III. LOVE MEDICINE—YIMANTUWINYAI

Yimantūwīnyai came into being on the hill above Mûkkana-dūwûladiñ. He heard about a girl who had come to be here at the southeast. She did not look at men. "I will go," he thought. In the morning he started. He was looking for a plant as he went along toward the north. A plant had sprung up. He took its leaves and rubbed them in his hands. He took out the root, too, and rolled it in his hands five times. Then he climbed up to the southeast. He looked and saw her sitting there. She looked at him. Finally he came to her. Her eyes were large with crying. "Well," she thought, "you in front of me. Lonesomeness has fallen on me." "Now I am going back," he said. "Well, wait for me. I will go with you," she said. She went into the water and after some time came out with a load. Then they started back. They came back to the hill above Mûkkana-dūwûladiñ.

"This is the way it will be. Indians will come. He will say my formula. This way it will be hard."

This way only.

THE PRAYER

"You who came into being above Mûkkana-dūwûladiñ, loan me your herb." "Yes," he said. "Well, all right, you know my body (formula). You say it has happened. Well, I will loan it to you. All right, you know my formula. I say not many will know my formula. Well, take it with you." "Yes," he said. "Now I will go back. Now I will take it."

IV. LOVE MEDICINE—YIDETUWINYAI<sup>39</sup>

Yidetūwīñyai came into being at Teexōltewediñ. He heard the name of a Kixūnnai young man talked about who had come into existence at the eastern end of the ocean. When he came there they began to play the stick game and continued playing until Yidetūwīñyai had won all the property the other one had.

On his return when he came to the mouth of Salmon river a Kixūnnai young man who had come into existence under the water came out to him and challenged him to see who would be successful with two Kixūnnai maidens. The Kixūnnai tried first, but after a time started back in despair. The girl said no to him and refused to open the door.

But Yidetūwīñyai walked straight past. Then their heads really came out the door and they said, "Well, come in." "No," he said, "I am going back." He sat down at the end of the resting place. When he looked back the women were really coming behind him. As he looked around himself he saw that dentalia were scattered for a long distance. He went on past the mouth of the Trinity river. The women said to him, "This is the first time you have not desired women." He went on paying no attention to them and came back to Teexōltewediñ. The two women who formerly had never come out of their house when men were about came with him to Teexōltewediñ.

V. LOVE MEDICINE—YIMANTUWINYAI'S ILLEGITIMATE SON<sup>40</sup>

Yimantūwīñyai's illegitimate son was at the northern end of the world where he lived with his grandmother. "I will go visiting," he said one time. "Where is that herb which grew by me where I came into being? Bring it to me." "There it stands, yonder," she said to him. He started away carrying it with him. He came to Mūkkanadūwūladiñ and entered the Hupa (Klamath) river. He came to Weitspec and climbed Bald hill. He came down at Meisdiñdiñ and went south on this trail to <sup>39</sup> No herb or other object is used with this formula except the song which Yidetūwīñyai sang as he came down the river. It has no words.

<sup>40</sup> An illegitimate person among the Hupa could only marry one of very low rank. The formulas usually take extreme cases to illustrate their power.

Tcittindilekai (Sugar-bowl mountain), where he sat down to rest. Then he went on from the north to Leldiñ.

He was astonished to see smoke standing up before him. Some one was smoking himself in the sweathouse. It was the one who lies in the water who was smoking himself. When he came out his hair reached to his hips. He spoke to the traveler and asked him to come into the house. When they went in women were sitting inside. Then the old man said to him, "Let us go into the sweathouse."

When they were in the sweathouse he talked to him. "Do not let yourself think much about them. They are my women. They come into being for me in my presence in every place. The two sitting in the entrance of the house came here with me several days ago. They came into being on the other side of the ocean southwest. Now I hear two have come into being in the land that faces the eastern ocean. I had thought to go there for them, but you better go. I always go with the plant that is standing at the exit of the sweathouse." "No," replied his guest, "I will go empty-handed."

He started away and when he came where the land faces the eastern ocean he saw two women sitting making baskets. "Well, come into the house," they said to him. He went in. "Put the cooking stones on the fire. Get some water," one of them said. They went out and ran into the water. When the man went out he saw them swimming along way to the north. "Well," he said, and rolled over on the ground five times. He started back. When he came to Leldiñ he brought sweathouse wood and smoked himself. When he finished smoking himself he sat outside the sweathouse. When he looked up he saw two persons coming from the east with blankets spread over their loads. They came there. The next morning they started back. They came to the northern end of the world. There were two women with him.

VI. LOVE MEDICINE—THE MT. SHASTA WOMEN

A Kixûnnai young man came into being at the southern end of the world. At the same time an herb came up by him. He did not see any people. After a time he thought, "Well, I will look for them." He started out in the morning and went up in the sky. When he came to the resting place he shot as is the custom. Then he looked inside of the world. There to the base of Mt. Shasta his vision extended. "There it is they have become," he thought. When he came to the base of Mt. Shasta they said to him, "Well, come in." He went in the house and said, "I am going to stay only a short time. I am going back." "Yes," said the women, "we will go with you." He started back and the two women went with him. They came to the southern end of the world. They spent the night there. Then those women said to him, "You think there are no Kixûnnai who have come into being?" "Well," he replied, "I do not know of any." "Yes," they told him, "here to the northeast is a Kixûnnai. With him two women came into being. They do not see people. They never go out." "I will go there too," he said. In the morning he started. He carried his herb with himself. When he came to the place in the northeast where the women had come into being, they said to him, "Well, come in." "I will stay just a little while," he said, "and then I will go back." "We will go with you," they replied. Then he went back and they two went with him. They came to the southern end of the world.

"I do this for Indians who will come," he thought. "It will be just this way. This way my formula will be hard."

Just this way only.

VII. DEER MEDICINE—PANTHER AND WILDCAT

Panther lived with his younger brother Wildcat at Kôte-mitta'diñ.<sup>41</sup> Panther always went hunting, but Wildcat always set snares. His sister-in-law used to say to him, "I am tired of dressing hides, my fingers ache." Because she complained Wildcat went away. When Panther came home his younger brother was not there. "You must have been saying something to him," he said to his wife. "No," she said, "I only said my fingers ached."

<sup>41</sup> Said to be an old name for Tselûndiñ. (See map in volume 1 of this series.)

Panther tracked him to Senimme.<sup>42</sup> When he came up behind the house he heard talking inside. He spent the night right there behind the house. In the morning he saw his brother come out with two ropes on top of each other. He went up to him at Seninmûkköstûk and said, "I am afraid. Is it not queer you came here? I am afraid of this mountain."<sup>43</sup> They went up to the sky and came where the deer-lick is that is white. There were no trees there, so they made a fence with bunch grass. Then it snowed. They sat there watching until the sun was in the west, when white deer went in. They drove them out of the water and two were snared. They dressed them and placed the meat in carriers made of withes. They got into these carriers themselves and rolled down. When they came to Seninmûkköstûk they stopped. "Well, carry them," he said. Wildcat came back to Senimme carrying two white deer.

Now this way only.

VIII. DEER MEDICINE—THE NASLINDIN YOUNG MAN

A young Kixûnnai man came into being back of Naslindiñ. The mountain grew along with him. When he looked out at midnight the mountain had grown up higher. He used to hunt deer. He did not sleep. After a time that one who did not use to sleep slept. He dreamed about women. Notwithstanding he went out in the morning. The mountain which grew up with him was not there. Nevertheless he went out for deer. He climbed up into the sky. There were no deer to be seen. He heard deer snort by the eastern water. "This way it will be," he thought. "Indians will become." He came back. "I will make its medicine." Then he made it. When he looked, it (the mountain) had grown up again. In the morning he went out again and went up to the sky. A deer was standing with its face toward him. "This way it is," he thought. "Indians will come. Even if he does this way, he will kill deer if he has my herb and says my formula."

This way only.

IX. DEER MEDICINE—YOUNG MAN BECOMES A SHRUB

A Kixûnnai young man came into being in this middle world. He did nothing but hunt deer. He did not sleep. After a time he did sleep and dreamed about women.<sup>44</sup> Notwithstanding his dream he went out the next morning to hunt. He did not see deer. He finally got tired looking for deer in vain. "I will turn into a plant," he said to himself. He became tûnmil-lûwe (a ceanothus). It stood beside the sweathouse. Then the deer came to him and ate it.

"Well," he thought, "I did it for Indians. It will be just this way in regard to deer. It will be this way when one repeats my formula."

X. DEER MEDICINE—RAVEN

Raven came to be at the southern end of the world. He hunted for deer in vain. He did not see any. Finally he thought he would go away. He pointed his canoe across the ocean. In the morning he started. When he was half way a plant grew up on the bow of his canoe. When he had floated a little way he looked up. A deer was coming up on the east side. When he looked to the west a deer was coming up there also. He floated out at Mûkkanadûwûladiñ. "I will go again to the water's end at the south where I used to live," he thought.<sup>45</sup> He came there to the end of the southern water. In the night he heard something outside. The deer were eating that plant. He took it up from the bow of his canoe and set it out back of his house. They came there for it. Then he saw deer.

"This way it will be," he thought, "if one takes my herb with him."

XI. DEER MEDICINE—BLACK WOLF

Black wolf came into being at Hundred-acre prairie.<sup>46</sup> He always dreamed about women. Some one told him, "At the end of the eastern water ten brothers have become. They are very smart and their names have traveled." "I will go there," he thought. Then he started and came to the eastern end of the world. In ten places there was a man carrying a deer-mask on his head. He started back in the morning. They made a load so small for him. He came back to Hundred-acre prairie. When he had stayed several nights some one said to him, "Those Kixûnnai are dead." "Well, I knew that would happen," he thought to himself. "I will go. I will take my herb along with me." He came to the eastern ocean's end. They were all lying dead around the fire.<sup>47</sup> "Get up," he told them. Then he pounded medicine for them and rubbed it on them. "Well, you better go out for deer." They found deer again and killed them. "I did that for Indians who will come. This way it will be hard for the one who does not say my formula." He came back to Hundred-acre prairie.

<sup>44</sup> Such dreams unfit the hunter, and all who eat with him, for hunting deer, and should a deer be killed after such a dream the hunter's soul is believed to be taken captive by the deer gods.

<sup>45</sup> He came down the Trinity and Klamath rivers to the ocean and then went back along the shore of the ocean to his home, where it was believed the Trinity river had its origin in the supposed water of the south.

XII. MONEY MEDICINE—THE SCABBY BOY

He came into being at Kesetteitdiñ (mouth of Mad river). He was all covered with scabs. He had ten brothers and a small sister. This sister fed him without the knowledge of her brothers, who hated the scabby one. Nevertheless he used to go out at night and fish with a dipnet. One night he was fishing and saying "yōwe, yōwe." Finally he thought he would go away. He twisted some string. Then he said, "In the morning I will go. Let them come in to me." When they came in, he gave each of them a string of dentalia. "Now, I am going away from you." "Well," they thought, "he is smart." Then he went away to the east, where he is now.<sup>48</sup>

XIII. MONEY MEDICINE—KINNAXONTADIN ILLEGITIMATE MAN

An illegitimate person came into being at Kinnaxōnta'diñ.<sup>49</sup> He thought, "With something in his hands he sings. He points his hands toward the west. Then he points his hands toward the east. The dentalia wiggle in his hand. Now, this way it will be. Even an illegitimate person will possess something if he sings this song," he said.

<sup>47</sup> They died because a man who had such dreams had eaten with them or of meat they had killed. (Cf. present series, I, 323.)

XIV. GOOD LUCK MEDICINE—YIDUKATOME YOUNG MAN

A young Kixûnnai man came into being at the eastern water's end. When he came into being his herb sprang up by him. Here on the other side of the ocean to the southwest two women<sup>50</sup> came into being. He used to go there. When he came home he used to wash himself with his herb. Notwithstanding what he did he used to kill deer and get money.

"If one takes my herb with him my medicine will do even that for him."

This way only.

XVI. THE COMING OF INDIANS

Yimankyūwiñxoiyan came into being at the northern end of the world. He began thinking about people and how they might be brought into existence. He saw a woman walking along. "I will lie with her," he said to himself, and started toward her. He came to her and did as he had intended. When he had resumed his journey he was very thirsty. He was so thirsty he was nearly falling from weakness. As he walked along he heard flowing water. "Oh," he said, "now I will drink." He fell right into the pool where the water was standing. He drank and drank and drank. A log floated into his mouth with the water. He fell over on his back and lay there thinking he was dead. He was not revived by the next morning. After a time he heard a raven croaking. "I wish he would peck my belly open," he said to himself. Then the raven did peck his belly open. "Phū" the water sounded as it ran out and stood in a pool as it had before.

Yimankyūwiñxoiyan got up and went on toward the south. "I wish something would appear," he thought, when a hollow tree stood before him. "I will go inside," he said to himself. The tree grew together, closing him in. "I wish somebody would do something," he kept thinking. Then he heard pounding where the tree had grown together. "I came here from the southeast," he heard some one say. "I knew what you were doing. It has happened in many places." When the tree had been opened, he came out again.<sup>51</sup>

He went on walking toward the south. He saw a canoe floating about with two women sitting up in it. "I will do that again," he said, and dived into the water. He came up under the edge of the canoe, climbed in, and lay with both of them.

As he walked on toward the south he saw a man walking with his sister. He waded into the water, plucked out some of his pubic hairs, and threw them into the water. They floated to the woman and entered her. She was staggering as she came out of the water. In the course of a day's time she was very ill. "You better call him," she said to her brother. "He may be a medicine man." The brother brought him and he danced and sang over her. "I do not doctor where people are sitting," he said. The people all went out except sapsucker, who stuck to the doorpost and observed what was done. Yimankyūwiñxoiyan lay with the girl, recovering his pubic hairs in that manner. As he withdrew them he sang a song.

While he was going on again toward the south he saw a woman walking on the tops of the trees. "Come down, I want to talk to you," he called when he came under her. "What is it that you intend doing to me that you speak so?" she asked. She came down, and Yimankyūwiñxoiyan ran up to her and said, "This is what I will do. I wish that there should be people in the world."

He left her and started on. He was surprised to see three people walking along. "We knew all about it," they said, "how you wished there might be people in the world. It will be so everywhere. People will come into existence because you first did this. Men and women will live together since you first have lain with women. You have not passed by even one woman on your journey. I have thought that Indians would come into being everywhere. When they grow old and die others will be born to take their places. They will come into being one after the other. This is the way the world will be. This is the way Indians will live. I even thought some one would come into the world for their sakes."

After a time he decided to go on. Then they said to him, "These are your children." "No," he replied, "I do not think they are my children." "I think they are certainly your children." "Well, yes, I believe they are mine," he assented.

He went on going among the people. "I will make more of them. When people are living on the earth I do not think they will quarrel, or hate each other, or fight. They will not do differently from the way I have done. Those who grow up together will not quarrel."

He went on again. As he walked along he said to himself, "I will go on until I come to a definite place and then I will stop. When the people are living they will be a little south of the middle of the world. I wonder in how many days I shall return to the place from which I started. I will go on to the southern end of the world and then I will turn back."

Then he walked and walked and walked. He saw two persons traveling. "I will go to meet them," he said to himself. When he came up to them they stood to one side. "Why do you go on toward that place?" they asked him. "Turn back. We have heard of many things about you. You must not go there. Go back." "No," he replied. "I am going on. I am now near the south. I am about to arrive there. In two days I will be returning. When I get there I will turn back of my own accord. I shall soon be there."

He went on walking toward the south. He saw two persons gathering something. He decided to go up to them and talk with them. "Why do you go there?" they asked. "They tell many bad things about you." "It is none of your business that I am going to walk to the south."

As he went on toward the south he saw a man standing alone in the distance. When he came up to him, the stranger said, "Many people are living where you are going." "Well, I shall go there nevertheless." He went on and came where three houses were standing. Many people were living there. "Where did you come from?" they asked. "You need not think you are going to do unseemly things here."

He came to the southern end of the world. "I am traveling with no particular end in view," he assured them. "Spend the night here," one of them replied. "Tomorrow when you go back my sister there will go back with you." The next morning he started home, the woman accompanying him as his wife. As they went back he kept saying, "I made the people. I did well." At the places where they spent the nights as they returned he told them that he had been to the southern end of the world. On their return he saw people going out in the morning to bury a dead person. "Do you think I will travel on the day a person has been buried?" he asked.

He went home toward the north. He saw many people traveling as he went back. When he was approaching his home those he met said to him, "You are returning after a long absence." "Yes," he replied, "I am nearly home now." He came where two people were standing. "Hurry back," they said to him. "Your people are worried about you." When he came near he heard them crying for him. They thought he was dead. They were glad to see him coming back with his wife. Indians were living everywhere.

XVI. THE TWO-HEADED MONSTER<sup>52</sup>

They lived at Kittûnnadaadiñ. Four brothers and an old woman came into existence there. After a time the oldest and wisest of the brothers concluded he would go down the creek. He went along, passing Xõntelme, Xõladiñ, and Lõdaikyõxûlladiñ. He entered the creek bed and came out again at Xõmitkyandiñ. Continuing down stream he came out west of Saõlkûtsdiñ. He walked along where the houses used to stand. When he came to the creek as he walked along he heard something making a noise on the hillside on the other side of the creek. He went on toward the north, but noticed the small branches of the redwood trees were falling. He was wondering what was making the noise. Then a two-headed monster appeared from the hill and began to chase him about. He continued to run until he was nearly out of breath and about to die. Finally his breath was gone and he died. The monster had killed him. Then he carried the body across the creek and up the hill to the house where he lived. The house was so covered with moss no one would notice it. The beings who eat people lived there.

When that brother did not come back they were worried at Kittûnnadaadiñ. Another day passed and they were worried. When another day had passed, another of the brothers set out. He came along from the south, passing Kõsda, Xõstatetañadiñ, Teekõlindiñ, Kailûwta'diñ, and Lõtcēke. Coming to this place

(Tsedemente), he walked on to the south. He crossed the creek, came to Xōntelme, and went on to Kailūwsadiñ. Crossing the creek again, he came to Lōdaikyōxōladiñ and north of that Kinnastanmiye. Again crossing the creek, he came out at Xōmitkyandiñ and then went west from Seōlkūtsdiñ. When continuing toward the north he came to the place where the village used to be, he heard something making a noise. The monster going along made a noise in the timber like the blowing of the wind. He killed him and carried him across the stream and up the hill. Now another was gone. Two of them had been killed.

Again they were worried. Another of the brothers was worried because those who had gone did not return. When the second one failed to return still another brother set out toward the north. He walked along from the south. Three were gone and there was only one left. He was the youngest and only so large. He said to his grandmother, "Today I am going visiting." "My grandchild, why do you say that? They will eat us all up," she replied. She felt for something. When she found his belt she took it out and he put it on. It was so wide. "When you are about to lose your breath do this way," she told him.

Then the youngest started out. Three were not, they had died. He came here toward the north, crossed the creek, came to Xōntelme, and went on to Kailūwtañadin. Then he went on, came to the creek, crossed it and came out into Lōdaikyōxōladiñ. He continued to Kinnastanmiye, came west to the creek, and reached Xōmitkyandiñ. Then going on toward the north he passed west of Saōlkūts, where the house-pits are. Going north beyond the small creek by the house-pits, he heard something making a noise.

Across the stream up on the hillside above Daxaletañadiñ the redwoods were moving back and forth. It was the coming of the monster that made the noise. When he came out into the glade north, Nak'k'ōkōstasaide was coming from the west making a noise. The monster chased him around until his breath was nearly gone. When he was about to be killed he did this way with his belt. The monster fell apart, dead. The man had not taken (the magic thing) out. He carried it home to his grandmother who had said, "Carry it with this (the belt)." Then he went across the stream and followed the track up the hillside to Kauwkyōdaxōntelkūt. There on the south side near the head of the gulch a house stood on which ferns were growing. He walked to it and went in. An old woman and a boy were sitting there. "Something must have made a noise," the boy said. There was a net lying there, made for catching people on which these persons lived. The hillside below the house was white with the bones of people. When the boy took up the net the man did this way to him with his belt and he fell in two parts. The old woman in turn took up the net. He did the same way to her and she died. "People shall not do this way. They shall live right. They shall not eat people." He set fire to the house and burned it.

He went back south where his grandmother lived. "I have come back, grandmother," he said. "I am glad you came back, grandchild," she replied. "I killed them," he said, and returned the belt. "My body is glad," she said. Her grandchild was left and they lived well after that.

XVII. PANTHER AND GRIZZLY BEAR<sup>53</sup>

Panther lived way north at Kiñkyōlai with two boys, Wildcat and Fox.<sup>54</sup> He used to go out and hunt every morning with a deer's head for a decoy. He used to say to the boys, "Do not go up the hill." He always used to say that and then go hunting. He brought meat and cut it up to dry until the house was full of dry meat and hides. This was what he was always doing. He kept telling the boys not to go up the hill.

"Why does he always say that to us?" the boys said to each other. "Why does he keep telling us not to go up the hill?"

They went up the hill and came where a grizzly bear was living. They trifled with him. He went to the house and ate up its contents. When Panther returned he exclaimed, "What has happened?" The house was flat on the ground and everything had been eaten up. He started off, walking. Seeing smoke ascending, he went to the house and put his head in the doorway. He saw a man lying by the fire and a woman sitting near by. He shot the man in his shoulder as he lay asleep. "Alo," the old man said, "what did you put in the fire that snaps so?" "Snapping in the fire, did you say? Do you not know that you have been shot?" his wife asked.

Panther shot him everywhere. There was no result. Finally the woman said, "It does no good for you to shoot his body. That does not hurt him. His heart is in the sole of his foot." Panther shot him there and killed him. He surely died.

Panther went back to his home and rebuilt his house. He took the boys and pushed them into the fire. "Was that what I told you? Did I tell you to go up the hill?" he said. The boys went outside. When it was evening he called to them, "Come in, nephews." They came in and he fed them. How they ate.

He told grizzly bear, the kind he killed, not to do that again. "You shall just live out of doors."

Panther went about again and killed game as before. Soon the house was as it used to be inside. He took good care of the children. They lived well.

XVIII. SKUNK'S THEFT<sup>55</sup>

Skunk went in the morning to get bulbs. "Grandmother, sharpen my digging stick for me," he said. She went to a flat stone that lay near by and sang as she worked. The boy began to dance. "Girls, a handsome boy is dancing." They gathered in a circle near him. He emitted flatus. The spectators all bowed their heads to the ground. Skunk ate the bulbs, scooping up the smaller ones in his hands. When the others recovered, they went home carrying nothing but their empty baskets.

XIX. THE ESCAPE OF THE CAPTURED GIRL<sup>56</sup>

A girl lived in the middle of the world. The others who lived there had gone west, leaving this girl alone. There were no other <sup>55</sup> This tale is commonly told by the Indians living south of the Chilula. A version is given from the Kato, in present series, V, 219.

Indians in the neighborhood. As fall was coming on, the girl busied herself gathering acorns and cracking them. A long time passed before the absent party returned.

Once when she was employed as usual sitting facing the door she heard a person outside. She was so frightened that she did not take out the acorn she had just put in her mouth to crack. She saw he was holding a carrying basket before his face. The man came in, remaining on the opposite side of the fire from her. His face had been blackened. "Do not be afraid of me. I have been thinking about you for some time. I knew about you," he said to her. Although she was afraid of him, she gave him some acorn soup. He bade her make acorn flour for their journey.

The next day they started back. They traveled until they came where he had spent the night on his way. They camped there. The next morning they arose and continued their journey. They traveled until sunset, spending the night where he had previously camped. Thus they traveled. "Did you think it would take ten days?" he said to her, "we shall get there in one more day." The next day they started out again. When the sun was in the west they came to a hollow tree.<sup>57</sup> The man sat down outside and told his companion to be seated. When they went in the girl found it was a large tree with plenty of room inside. Obsidians lay around everywhere. South of the tree was a pond of water. There were many crates of dry meat in the house. "Do not be afraid," the man said. "Eat."

When they had spent several days thus the man said, "I would like to eat some fresh meat." He felt around the south side of the room and took out a package. The woman watched him as he went out and entered the timber. She went along the edge of the timber watching him. In the timber was a small open glade in which a band of elk were feeding. The man was holding the package under his arm. The woman was able to watch him without his seeing her. "What is he up to?" she was saying to herself. When he came to a favorable place he did this way with the package<sup>58</sup> and the elk fell down.

The woman went back and went into the tree again. When the man came in he said, "I am going to do the butchering. I will eat fresh meat." He started away. The woman had seen him put the package down. She took it up and followed him with it. She came upon him as he was butchering and did this way to him. She went back, carried the package in, and put it down again. When after a time the man came back again, he complained that his head ached. By night he was nearly crazy. "I am worse," he said, "drag me to the pond and throw my body in. Throw the package in after me." When he died she did as he had asked.

The next morning she selected three red obsidians, three robes, and two black obsidians, put them in her carrying basket, and started home. On her return journey she camped each night where they had camped on the previous journey. It took her just as many days to return as they had taken in coming. As she came near her home, she heard a noise. It was the falling of the tears which she heard. When she had put her carrying basket down she asked what they were crying about. "You are crying for me too soon," she told them. She went in the house and found that after they had returned they had cut their hair off even with their chins. She told them about herself and the man who had taken her away.

XX. BEWITCHING OF THE OLD WOMAN OF SELGAIKALINDIN

They were living together at Selgaikalindiñ. They went west, leaving an old woman like me (the narrator), who stayed behind. A girl was living alone across the creek on the east side. The people were gone a long time. Finally they came back from the west.

The old woman had not eaten that day, but had walked down the hill. She kept saying to herself, "Something large has been dragged along the trail." It was fall and the sun was low in the west. "I will spend the night with her I think. I am lonesome," she said. "Well, come in," the other said. The woman was all the time making faces, peering under her hand. She did this because she had witch medicine. "Why do you keep doing that to me? Why don't you go to bed?" She had buried her bad medicine in the ground. After a time she had cracked one basketful of acorns. She still sat there watching her. "Why do you do that to me?" she asked. She finished shelling another basketful. The dawn was looming up. Soon it was fairly light.

"Go out," she told her. She drove her out, saying, "You came here to sleep." Under the bed there were two baskets with their open ends pressed together. She took them out and threw them after her, hitting her. "Die. Let it go into your body. The basket smells badly," she called after her.

The next day the girl said to herself, "I will take a walk." She came to a log under which a person's dead body was lying. It was the body of the old woman into which the evil power had entered. The rotten wood had fallen over the body, covering it up.

"I will go up the hill," the girl said to herself. The people of the village were busy at different occupations. Some of them were soaking acorn meal. She went into the house, where fish which they had brought from the coast was lying. They gave her some of the fish to eat and asked her if she had seen anything of such an old woman. "When we came back yesterday she had gone out," they said. "She did not come to see me," the girl replied. She started home, carrying her load of fish. "I did not see her," the girl said to herself. She came back to her home.

XXI. BEWITCHING OF THE LITTCUWHWINNAUWDIN GIRL

Two men and a sister were living across the creek from litteūwhwinnauwdiñ. One time a man came from the west who said, "You better bring acorns across the mountains to me." They loved their sister very much, but they concluded they would carry loads of acorns across to the coast. They warned their sister not to leave acorns outside the house.

They set out toward the west with their loads, going into the forest. They went down to Seyekyōkait, where they stopped to drink. Going up the ridge, they came to the resting place. When they had gone a long way they came to KinsinLōk. They crossed the creek and went on until they came to the ocean, where they sat down. They sat by the village of Tôteindinnûndiñ. When they came to the house of the man who had asked them to bring acorns they sat by his door.

"Call them in," he said to some one. "Come in," that one called out. They ate supper. When they had finished eating the old man said, "Well, let us go to the sweathouse." The men went to the sweathouse and lay down pretty close to each other. The old man got up and took something out from the eastern side. "Are you asleep?" he asked. They did not answer. When he kept asking them they knew what he was about to do. When the dawn was about to appear he was going to kill them by magic. The strangers moved the old man's sons and lay in their places. The old man felt about and rubbed something as he supposed in the mouths of his visitors. About dawn they heard something making a noise in the sons' throats. It was the black fluid in their throats that made the noise. Then he felt about and found that it was that which made the noise.

Then the wise one spoke. "You did not have good intentions when you asked that we bring you loads." They had already made up the loads of surf fish and seaweed given in return with mortars in the middle of them. The old man told this man if he would not tell on him he would give him a woman and red obsidians. The man said he did not want such a woman.

"Well, let us go back," they said. Then they started back and came out again at KinsinLök. When they had crossed and were going up the other side they heard that the boys had died after they left. They went along until the sun was in the west and they had come to Töyekyökadûkka, where they had intended to camp, when, fearing that their sister might leave acorns outside, they went on.

The old man was walking after them, vainly trying to overtake them. They heard him as he was coming along. One of the brothers told the other to sit below the trail. He himself sat above the trail with a knife in his hand. A log lay there over which one had to climb. When the one following them jumped over the log one of the brothers jumped up in front of him and stabbed him here. Then the one sitting below the trail jumped up, caught hold of him, and stabbed him repeatedly. They cut him to pieces.

Then they came back from the west to the Teswan village. From there they went on to Satsmittōdiñ. It was rather warm as they passed along. They went on, coming down to Kaiistmit-tōdiñ, crossed and went up the ridge to Tcimmetauwitkût. When they came along the ridge on their way home they heard a noise in the direction of their village. They nearly fell with the heat (?). They found that their sister, on whose account they had hurried back, had been killed by magic poison. She had been killed the night before as she was bringing in acorns. They did not feel so badly, for they had killed the man who caused her death and had cut him to pieces. Those two who had loved their sister very much came back to their home.

XXII. FLIGHT OF THE MURDERERS

There were people living at the village of Kittûnnadaadiñ, where there was a sweathouse. Some one came to the village and said to the headman, "Some people are coming to you today from Katewûndiñ, on the Trinity river." "Very well," the headman replied. "I am not afraid. Let them come. Let them come at once." Soon he saw an Indian. "Are you willing that many of us should come to your village?" he asked. "I came first to ask." "I am not afraid. You may come," he replied. "In two days you may expect many of us," he said, and started back.

After a time four men came up the hill. "Are you afraid of me?" one of them asked. "It is all right. I am not afraid," he replied. "You may bring your people to my village." Then it happened that way. There was a fight at the murderer's village. He brought his family to Kittûnnadaadiñ. At that village the sweathouse stood south of a large maple tree which had several spreading branches. There were five people who came. It was winter time, there was snow and it was cold. They spent several nights at the village, the women sleeping in the house and the men in the sweathouse.

Then it happened that a man came there holding a bunch of brush before his face. Another man came in. One of the women ran out to call the men. She came to the entrance of the sweat-house and called out, "Hurry, they are attacking us." There were two men staying at the time in the sweat-house. The enemy put fire to it and burned it to the ground. Three of them escaped to the creek, plunged in, and crossed to the timber on the opposite side. They lived there in the timber until giant ferns grew on their shoulders. Finally they came back and lived happily afterwards.

XXIII. REJUVENATION DISCONTINUED

He-who-came-down-for-the-world came into existence here at the northern end of the world. He started traveling. He thought about this. He came walking from the north. He came to the middle of the world. He walked on. He came to that which points toward the sky. He came where the hill stands. He arrived there. He made hills stand on either side. There used to be one that stood up.

"People will live well. They will travel safely." They used to go up this hill and become young again. When a person who is old like me went up this hill toward the east he became young again. It was this way. After a time one company of people went up the hill. It happened to them that they were rejuvenated. Then the one who lives way south said, "This hill will be mine only." He did not like it that those who traveled on it should become young again. He did not like it to be tall.

XXIV. THE FLOOD

He used to live by the large butte that stands here. Water came. The water flowed over every part of the world. Then only so much of the hill was not covered by the water. All kinds of animals swam to it. Then the water which came dried up again. The people lived happily again after the ground was dry. Just the Kixûnnai lived on this butte.

Here is the end.

her brother. Then she threw ashes out like this. When the enemy came to the entrance to fight the striking flints caused the blanket to shake and make a noise like "sai." Nothing bad entered his body. This way she did to her brother with the hair-band and the ashes.

She made medicine when people were to fight. She rubs ashes on his face making horizontal lines below his eyes and across the upper portion of his arms. Having made the medicine she shouts "meu" five times and repeats the formula. They lived at Sekyōxatinnitme.

XXVIII. PURIFICATION OF THE BEREAVED—FOR MEN

He came into existence alone here northeast. He put the water of dentalia close by himself. He burned five bundles of Ceanothus brush and stood in the smoke.

After a time a person died. He fixed the body properly. When he had finished he bathed (the mourner) with ginseng.

The deer's water stood there. The white deer stood in the water which came so high on them. He caused them to travel. He caused the roan deer to travel. He made them go where mint was growing. It was as if they were floating in it. After a time he caused white deer to travel there. After them he made the brown deer travel. Then they swam in the water of dentalia. Then he opened (the pond) and when he opened it the noise encircled the earth.

He always does this way, with it he conducts the person to Kixūnnaita'diñ. That which he did belongs to Indians. When it had been day five times he placed five bundles of yerba buena under him on the fire and poured a decoction of mûkkadjek'ōlen<sup>60</sup> over him. He travels well. He brought him back from Kixūnnaita'diñ. I put this much of that which belongs to Indians (tobacco) in your hand. You will have so much. You will do this way in any case. Nothing will go by you," he said to him. He brought him back to the Indian world. After this it was so.

FOR WOMEN

It is always dry here southeast. There are always many flowers there. He puts abalone water there. A tanoak stands there. The girls always come to it from the northeast. They also come from the southwest. He placed the water of a sea-shell by it. "This abalone's water I sprinkle on you. This maxatcinminnexölen's water I sprinkle on you," he said to her. When he has put the water this way on the crown of her head he says, "We come back to the Indian world." He rubs it on her back also. He makes it this way for a woman.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

After the dictation of the above given text, the following additional information concerning this purification ceremony was secured, chiefly in reply to questions.

The medicines used are five bundles of Ceanothus integerri-mus, the roots of ginseng, a vine, probably yerba buena, Micro-meria Chamissonis, and the roots of Leptotaenia Californica. When the medicine is made for women the shells mentioned in the texts are put in the fluid, whole. The bundles of Ceanothus are used for fumigation. The medicines are brought in a carrying basket, pounded in a basket-mortar, and boiled in a basket-bowl by means of hard stones called se Littsö, "stones blue." The medicine is prepared in the dwelling house. The ginseng is used on the first day, the others mentioned on the second, third, and fifth day after the death. No ceremony is held on the fourth day. The formula given above is repeated during the preparation of the medicine on each of the days it is made.

The man who digs the grave (and who is the nearest able-bodied male relative) has a fire to the right of the regular house fire as one enters. A board is placed on edge to separate the two fires. The grave-digger is given two meals a day, one at sunrise and another about four in the afternoon. He is allowed to eat dry salmon and surf-fish, but not fresh salmon or eels, or meat in any form. After the evening meal he goes out to the grave carrying or wearing a bundle of Douglas spruce boughs over his head. He builds a small fire by the grave-side and cries, saying,

"I have come for my tracks." The bundle of boughs is used in the house for a pillow. When the ceremony is completed, this bundle of boughs, the board used to fence off the fire, the baskets used in cooking for and in feeding the grave-digger, and the clothing he has worn are carried up to the east and put in a tree. The place where he lay is carefully smoothed out.

A medicine called kimau Lûkkau, "medicine fat," probably Osmorrhiza nuda, is given internally on the fifth day with fish and eels, when the first regular meal is given the mourners. The bath in the river, used by the Hupa, is not permitted by the Chilula. If there is no deer meat at hand for the meal of the fifth day, deer sinew is used instead. The person who makes the medicine receives the various baskets used in the ceremony, and a string of dentalia, valued at five dollars.

When the grave-digger is ready to break the ground he says: "I make a mark around the butte here southeast. I am going to dig the ground here with that."

The Chilula do not put a basket in the doorway as do the Hupa. They carry the body out through an opening in the side of the house, not through the doorway. The body is taken out head first, the grave-digger taking the feet. The family may eat while the body is in the house and the grave-digger is required to do so. They used to put dentalia in the ears and nose of the deceased.

When the body is about to be buried, it is addressed as follows: "You must go away from me. You must not think about me."

The informant and her husband were showing signs of uneasiness. The interpreter replied to a question that they were afraid. "The sun hears it all and will do something bad." The informant threw away a chip with which she had illustrated the position of the board used, and exclaimed, "Disregard what we have said."

XXIX. A SUPERNATURAL EXPERIENCE

Four years ago I did not see the world then it happened that I did something. I died. I dreamed that I was here in the southeastern world in a large cloud. A feather ornament was moving this way and singing thus. It was the one who came for me who was doing it.<sup>61</sup> A little while I am holding you. For a short time I will live again." Then I sang it after him. I sing it every night. After a time I got well.

<sup>61</sup> The person meant is the supernatural leader of the shamans. He is said to be the child known to the Hupa in the myth found on page 187 of volume 1 of this series. Molasses' wife was a medicine woman for troubles caused by the deer gods. As such, she was on her way to the world of the southeast on the sky, not below to the world of the ordinary dead (this series, I, 74). So certain was her husband that she was dead that he went for lumber to make her coffin.
