

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements.....	V
List of Tables .....	XIII
List of Abbreviations .....	XIV
Preface .....	1

PART ONE APPROACHES TO MASS MEDIA DEPICTIONS OF CRIME AND DEVIANCE

Introduction: The Media-Crime Nexus .....	5
Chapter One On the Criminogenic Effects of the Media.....	9
1.1 A History of Respectable Fears.....	9
1.2 Early Research Attempts.....	12
1.3 The Legacy of Positivism and Behaviourism .....	14
1.4 The Emergence of the ‘Hypodermic Syringe Model’ .....	17
1.5 The Payne Fund Studies.....	20
1.6 On the Continuing Controversy of ‘Media Effects’ Research .....	23
1.6.1 Reverse Approach to the Problem.....	25
1.6.2 Methodological Shortcomings.....	26
1.6.3 Inadequate Approach to the Communication Process .....	30
1.6.4 Arbitrary Selectivity .....	31
1.7 On The Persistence of the ‘Effects Approach’ .....	31
Chapter Two On the Role of the Media as a Subtle Form of Social Control...34
2.1 Preliminary Remarks.....	34
2.2 Traditional Approaches to Crime.....	34
2.3 The Labelling Perspective.....	38
2.4 Mass Media and Deviancy Amplification.....	40
2.5 Mass Media and Moral Panics .....	43
2.6 Marxist and Critical Perspectives in Criminology .....	50
2.7 Hegemony and the ‘Dominant Ideology Approach’ .....	52
2.8 Mass Media and the Reproduction of the Dominant Ideology .....	58
2.8.1 The ‘Signification Spiral’ .....	58
2.8.2 The Role of the Police as Amplifiers of Deviance .....	62
2.8.3 Professional Ideologies and Institutional Sources .....	66
2.9 Evaluation of the ‘Dominant Ideology Approach’ .....	71
Summary of Part One .....	76

PART TWO
CONCEPTION, OBJECTIVE AND THEORETICAL
FRAMEWORK OF THE STUDY

Introductory Remarks.....	77
Chapter Three Television Reality (Crime-) Programming .....	79
3.1 The 'Third Domain' of Television Output.....	79
3.2 Towards A Generic Typology of Reality Programming.....	82
3.3 Reality-Based Crime Programming .....	85
3.3.1 Reality-Based Police Programmes .....	85
3.3.2 Crime-Appeal Programmes .....	90
3.4 The Research Objective .....	94
Chapter Four Tracing the Social and Ideological Context of Crime-Appeal Programming.....	97
4.1 The Transition from Modernity to Late-Modernity .....	97
4.1.1 The Erosion of Traditional Family Structures.....	98
4.1.2 Alienation and the Collapse of Community .....	99
4.1.3 The Exhaustion of Consensus – Political Mobilization.....	101
4.1.4 The Landslide of Western Economy .....	102
4.2 The Impact of Social Change upon the 'Dyad of Crime' .....	104
4.2.1 Rising Crime Rates .....	105
4.2.2 Official and Public Reactions to Crime – The 'Punitive Turn' .....	110
4.2.3 Explanatory Models (of the 'punitive turn').....	115
4.3 The Origins of the Law-and-Order Ideology .....	116
4.4 The Politicization of Crime and Its Control.....	117
Chapter Five The 'Dominant Ideology Approach' Revisited.....	126
5.1 The 'Dual Function' of Crime-Appeal Programmes .....	126
5.2 The Research Purposes .....	130
5.3 Changing Patterns in Official Responses to Crime in England & Wales and the Federal Republic of Germany (in the Post-War Period).....	131
5.3.1 First Phase – Diametrically Opposed Policy Traditions.....	132
5.3.2 Second Phase – 'Liberalization' Tendencies in West German Crime Policy .....	134
5.3.3 Third Phase – The Transition from Liberal to Conservative Crime Control Policies.....	135
5.3.4 Fourth Phase – The 'Return' of Repressive Crime Policies .....	138
5.4 Changing Patterns in Media Depictions of Crime in England & Wales (in the Post-War Period) .....	140

5.4.1 The Extent of Crime in the British Media .....	142
5.4.2 Changes in the Representation of Crime .....	143
5.4.3 Changes in the Representation of Offenders and Victims.....	145
5.4.4 Changes in the Representation of the Criminal Justice System ....	149
5.5 Remarks on the Historical Correlation between Crime Policy and Media Depictions of Crime in England & Wales .....	152
5.6 Changing Patterns in Media Depictions of Crime in the Federal Republic of Germany (in the Post-War Period) .....	156
5.6.1 First Phase – Justification for the Repressive Crime Control Policy .....	160
5.6.2 Second Phase – Support for the Liberal Conception of Crime – ‘Moral Enterprise’ .....	161
5.6.3 Third Phase – Legitimization for the Expansion and Consolidation of the State Control-Apparatus .....	163
5.6.3.1 Overview .....	163
5.6.3.2 Intermediate Remarks .....	166
5.6.4 Fourth Phase – Propagation of the Newly Defined Function of the Criminal Law .....	168
5.6.5 Concluding Remarks .....	169
Summary of Part Two .....	171

PART THREE EMPIRICAL INVESTIGATION OF CRIME-APPEAL PROGRAMMES

Introduction: Methodological Remarks .....	173
1. Preliminary Note .....	173
2. Programme Selection .....	175
3. Problem Statement .....	179
4. Methodological Considerations .....	183
5. Methods of Approach.....	191
Chapter Six: Issues of Agency .....	193
6.1 Preliminary Remarks.....	193
6.2 Origins and Development of Aktenzeichen XY...ungelöst .....	194
6.2.1 The ‘XY’ Herald.....	194
6.2.2 The Concept of „ Aktenzeichen XY...ungelöst “ .....	196
6.2.3 The Programme’s Ideological Disposition .....	198
6.2.3.1 Critique on the Role of the Police.....	199
6.2.3.2 Critique of the Criminal Justice Policy .....	200
6.2.3.3 Critique of the Liberal Model of Justice .....	201
6.2.3.4 Critique of the Crime-Related Media Output .....	203

6.2.4 Conflict within the Media Institution .....	205
6.2.5 The Programme's Development.....	207
6.2.5.1 The Birth of the 'Studio-Case' .....	207
6.2.5.2 The Birth of the 'Update' .....	208
6.2.5.3 Production Secrecy .....	210
6.2.5.4 Network Widening.....	211
6.3 Origins and Development of Crimewatch UK .....	213
6.3.1 Programme Origins (Sources of Influence).....	213
6.3.2 Areas of Differentiation.....	214
6.3.3 Negotiations with the Criminal Justice Authorities.....	215
6.3.4 Negotiations with the BBC.....	216
6.3.5 Development of the Programme.....	218
6.3.6 The Programme's Ideological Disposition .....	220
6.4 Institutional Relationships.....	222
6.4.1 Aktenzeichen XY .....	222
6.4.2 Crimewatch UK .....	225
6.5 Decision Making Process.....	227
6.5.1 Selection Process .....	228
6.5.2 Production Process .....	236
6.6 Issues of Ownership and Control .....	243
6.6.1 Public Service Broadcasting.....	244
6.6.1.1 BBC – The Model.....	245
6.6.1.2 German Public Service Broadcasting and the ZDF .....	249
6.6.2 Broadcasting Regulations.....	253
6.6.2.1 Broadcasting Regulation in Britain.....	254
6.6.2.2 Broadcasting Regulation in Germany .....	256
6.6.3 Self-Regulation.....	259
6.6.4 Editorial Control and Responses to Critique .....	261
6.6.4.1 Crimewatch UK .....	262
6.6.4.2 Aktenzeichen XY .....	268
Chapter Seven: The Content of Crime-Appeal Programmes.....	279
7.1 Method of Analysis.....	279
7.2 Sample Size, Data Collection and Processing.....	281
7.3 Programme Format.....	287
7.3.1 Format Similarities .....	288
7.3.2 Format Discrepancies .....	290
7.4 Analysis of the Opening Sequences.....	298
7.4.1 Semiotics – Some Terms and Definitions .....	299
7.4.2 Aktenzeichen XY – Opening Sequences.....	303
7.4.2.1 XY Opening-Titles-Sequence .....	304
7.4.2.2 The Discourse of the Opening-Titles-Sequence .....	305

7.4.2.3 XY Introductory Sequence.....	307
7.4.3 Crimewatch UK – Opening Sequences .....	311
7.4.3.1 CW Opening-Titles-Sequence.....	313
7.4.3.2 CW Introductory Sequence .....	316
7.5 Quantifiable Aspects of the Programmes’ Content.....	320
7.5.1 On the Limited Reliability of Official Crime Statistics.....	321
7.5.2 Adopted Crime Type Definitions .....	323
7.5.3 Patterns of Crime .....	325
7.5.3.1 Content Analyses of Crime News.....	330
7.5.3.2 Content Analyses of Crime Fiction.....	335
7.5.3.3 Content Analyses of Reality-Based Crime Programming ..	338
7.5.4 Offender Characteristics .....	341
7.5.4.1 CAP Offenders and Their Official Counterparts .....	342
7.5.4.2 Offender Characteristics in Previous Research.....	346
7.5.5 Victim Characteristics .....	349
7.5.5.1 CAP Victims and Their Official Counterparts.....	349
7.5.5.2 Victim Characteristics in Previous Research .....	356
7.5.6 Concluding Remarks .....	359
7.6 Qualitative Aspects of the Programmes’ Content .....	360
7.6.1 Binary Oppositions – ‘Ideal Victims’ vs ‘Ideal Offenders’ .....	360
7.6.2 Constructing a Positive Police Image.....	366
7.6.3 From Voyeurism to Surveillance to Voyeuristic Surveillance.....	368
7.6.4 Audience Mobilization Techniques.....	375
Chapter Eight The Audience of Crime-Appeal Programmes .....	379
8.1 Introductory Remarks.....	379
8.2 Sources of Data .....	381
8.2.1 The BBC CW Reception Research .....	382
8.2.2 Schlesinger et al.’s CW Reception Research .....	383
8.3 The Two Programmes’ Ratings Performance .....	384
8.3.1 Chronological Development of XY and CW Viewing Figures .....	384
8.3.2 Assessing Viewers’ Socio-Demographic Characteristics.....	389
8.4 Viewers’ Overall Reaction to XY .....	391
8.5 Viewers’ Overall Reaction to CW .....	394
8.5.1 Findings From the BBC Study .....	394
8.5.2 Findings From Schlesinger et al.’s Study.....	396
8.5.2.1 Content of the Selected CW Screening .....	397
8.5.2.2 Women’s Overall Reaction to CW .....	399
8.6 Audience Reactions to Specific Aspects of the Programming.....	402
8.6.1 Assessment of the Reconstructions and the Depicted Levels of Violence .....	402
8.6.2 Perceptions of Crimes, Victims and Offenders .....	406
8.6.3 Perceptions of the Police .....	412

8.6.4 Further Critical Responses.....	414
8.7 CAP's Impact on Viewers' Fear of Crime.....	417
8.8 CAP's Impact on Viewers' Attitudes Towards Crime and Crime Control Policy.....	420
Summary and Conclusions .....	425
1. Summary and Discussion of the Research Findings.....	425
2. Conclusions .....	441
Appendix .....	445
References .....	477
Kurze Zusammenfassung (German Abstract) .....	515